WHAT IS DISABILITY MEDICAID?

Medicaid is a health care program for adults and children with low income and limited resources.

Disability Medicaid provides coverage for individuals with disabilities. An individual with a disability may receive additional services not covered by other Medicaid programs. It is available to people of all ages.

Medicaid defines a disability as the “inability to do any substantial gainful activity.” This includes a medically determinable physical or mental impairment, which:

- Can be expected to result in death
- Or has lasted or can be expected to last for 12 months or longer

WHAT IS COVERED BY DISABILITY MEDICAID?

Disability Medicaid provides the same health care benefits as other Medicaid programs. It also includes dental services for adults. It may cover some services other programs do not, such as incontinence supplies. (See What is Medicaid Brochure)

WHO IS ELIGIBLE?

To qualify for a Medicaid program you must:

- Be a U.S. citizen or qualified resident alien (unless applying only for emergency services)
- Be a Utah resident
- Meet income and resource limits

In addition to meeting the general eligibility criteria, to receive Disability Medicaid, you must have a disability. Either Social Security or the Medical Review Office can decide if you meet disability criteria.

If you have not been determined disabled at the time you apply for Medicaid, follow these steps:

1. Call or visit a Department of Workforce Services location to speak with an eligibility worker and tell them you want to apply for Disability Medicaid. You can fill out an application online or print a paper application to mail or fax to Workforce Services.
2. Gather the medical information about your disabling condition. There may be other forms you and your medical provider need to complete.
3. Gather information about your income and assets. Workforce Services will ask you to send in various documents to verify your eligibility.

The Medical Review Office may ask you to go to a doctor for an exam. If this is needed, the state can pay for the exam.

If you are determined eligible for Disability Medicaid, you may also need to apply for income benefits from Social Security.

If you think you might be eligible for Disability Medicaid, apply as soon as possible. For more information or to apply online, visit jobs.utah.gov/customereducation/services/medicaid.
